RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN PUBLIC COMMUNICATIONS AND FORMAL DOCUMENTATION

Proposed False Claims Act Disclosure

It was not my original intention to prepare a formal report. My initial objective was to document observations publicly via social media to encourage public awareness and official transparency regarding observed aerial activity.

As a former legal professional, I recognized patterns that warranted independent review and chose to document them openly and contemporaneously. Because social media prioritizes audience engagement, those early communications were intentionally conversational, incorporating humor, satire, and real-time commentary.

This report represents a separate, formalized undertaking. Unlike public posts, it is organized chronologically, applies standardized terminology, clearly delineates direct observation from analysis, and provides a structured record backed by contemporaneous metadata and open-source data.

During this observation window, the United States government publicly released additional UAP-related information. These official releases are included in the timeline strictly as part of the documented sequence of events, without asserting direct causation.

The purpose of this document is not persuasion through rhetoric, but the preservation of a verifiable factual record for independent evaluation.
